Student to Student Dictation:

Directions: Copy the following paragraphs. Cut them apart. Divide students into pairs. Tape a paragraph on the wall near each pair of students. One student will be the teacher and one will be the student. The "teacher" will read the dictation to the student.

Joon and Han walked to the park on Saturday. Kim went shopping. She put a bike on layaway for Han. She couldn't wait to tell Joon about it. If she paid $20 each month, it would be paid for by Christmas. That would make Han happy. Kim smiled all the way home.

Soon after Kim got home, the door flew open. Han ran into the room shouting, "Mom! Mom! I have a new bike!" Joon rolled the bike into the living room.

Joon said, "Don't worry, Kim. The bike is not new. It is a used bike. I bought it from Ramon for only $15.00. He said it used to be his son's bike. But Ramon's son is grown up now. Ramon helped me paint it.

Kim said, "Joon, I am happy we have a way to buy bikes. But I don't know how to ride a bicycle. What if I can't do it?"
