

Community College Teaching Certificate Program

The new Central Washington University Community College Teaching certificate program prepares participants for what to expect and how to succeed as a teacher in the community college classroom.

WHAT TOPICS ARE COVERED?

The program includes four workshops:

- Becoming a Successful Community College Faculty Candidate
- Instructional Technologies
- Assessment
- Teaching in the Diverse Classroom

Full workshop descriptions are available at www.cwuce.org/cct.

This non-credit program takes only two weeks to complete. The workshops will be taught by outstanding community college instructors who are experts in the four areas.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

The program is geared toward several audiences: 1) graduate students who intend to pursue a career teaching in a community college, 2) high school teachers who might want to teach a course or two in a community college, 3) current community college and university faculty who want to enhance their knowledge in any or all of the workshop topics.

COSTS:

• Becoming a Successful...Candidate	$200
• Instructional Technologies	$300
• Assessment	$300
• Teaching in the Diverse Classroom	$200

Tuition for the entire certificate program is $1,000. You may take any number of workshops separately, but must complete all four workshops to complete the program and receive a certificate.

PROGRAM LOCATION AND DATES:

The program will be offered in three locations:

• CWU-Des Moines	July 6-17, 2009
• Spokane Falls Community College	July 27 - August 7, 2009
• CWU-Ellensburg	August 10-21, 2009
