Teaching Equity Conference 2009

If not you, then who?

The focus of this FREE conference is to provide information and support for people of color interested in choosing careers in education. This half-day event will give participants the opportunity to learn more about educational pathways in early childhood, elementary education and paraeducation. Other workshops will include information regarding available funding and college success tips. A formal luncheon with educators of color from around the state will provide participants with possible mentoring opportunities.
